Our Business Creed

We believe in the goods we are handling out in the firm we are building up and in our ability to get results.
We believe that honest goods can be passed out to honest people by honest methods. We believe in working not weeping, not knocking, and in the pleasure of our work, we believe that a man can reasonably expect to get what he goes after, that one deed done now is worth two planned for the future.
We believe there is something doing somewhere for every man ready to do it. We believe we're ready right now.

Happenings of Interest in and Around this Bustling Town.
You are Talked About

Mr. Ward reports rapid sales of lots in Coleridge.

R. Mills was in town from Macleod on Tuesday last.

H. S. Farquharson, of Fernie, came to town on Sunday.

J. W. Bennett, of Fernie, visited Coleman on Monday.

W. H. McConnell, was here from Cranbrook on Saturday last.

T. W. Davies went to Hillcrest on Sunday and returned on Wednesday.

Work has been suspended at the stone quarry at the lake for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. James Scott and C.
Scott, of Crow's Nest, were in town on Monday.

Despite the increased price of lots in Coleridge the lots are selling better than ever.

F. G. Graham has tested the street hydrants and has found them to be in first class condition.

C. Scaddon, bookkeeper for Harry Oldan the C. P. R. wall builder at Loop, spent Wednesday in town.

Joe Youngheart, of Winnipeg, who is well known in this district, was doing business in town on Tuesday.

B. M. Stitt has recently purchased two fine horses and will shortly provide one of them with a side saddle.

Coleridge is the eastern terminus of the Crow's Nest line, being junctional point of main line of C.P.R. See Ward.

Mr. Gibson, who applies the International Coal and Coke Co. here, with lumber, will shortly open up his camp again.

Mr. Morgan who has been in the hospital for a few days receiving treatment for his eyes is now able to be about again.

Corporal Askey who is in charge of Frank detachment of R.N.W.M.P. is leaving the force. His place will be taken by Corporal Deykins.

MARRIED.—At the Boarding house, on Saturday evening last, by the Rev. T. M. Murray, Fred Smith to Miss Mable Neill, both of Coleman.

The bible class, in connection with the Institutional church, begins at 3.45 each Sunday afternoon and all men are cordially invited to attend.

You had better get your yards in proper shape as the fire chief will soon make a thorough inspection of them.
Remember that the notice will be short.

Duncan Smith, his mother and Mrs.
Alex. Smith and children, from Lethbridge, spent Saturday and Sunday in town and were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Benedict.

Rev. T. M. Murray, Messrs. Davis, Leysham, McPhee and Richardson visited Bellevue on Monday last to assist in the opening of the new Methodist church there.

The "Trymaker" at the opera house on Tuesday night was exceedingly well rendered and frequent applauds were given by a crowded and well pleased house.

Coleridge is destined to be a railway centre, manufacturing town and nearest market for farmers, which accounts for the rapid sale of lots. Buy before the lots take another jump.

The town reservoir has been repaired and now gives the town 145 pounds pressure. The dam, which is built of concrete, is five feet higher than before and a good water service can now be relied on.

Some of the boys got in the fire hall on Saturday night last and after disposing of some beer etc. some of them felt gay and rang the fire bell. This happened about midnight and many thought that there was a fire.

Mrs. McIntyre who has been visiting friends and relatives here, and Miss McIntyre went to Fernie on Saturday last, and after spending a little time there with friends will proceed to Penitence where they will reside.

FOR SALE—A cottage beautifully situated, comfortable and located in the residential portion of Coleman. A good cash price or easy terms will be given. S. Charles Brooks, "The Cotton Woods," 2700 street, Merritt,

A SAD ACCIDENT

John Miller, Aged 16, Discovered Dead and Badly Lacerated
On C.P.R. Track Near Coleman

A very sad accident occurred at Coleman, on Wednesday night, of this week, when John Miller, a bright young lad of 16 years of age, was killed. John was at the railway station with his brother and at 8.45 he left his brother telling him that he was going across the track and that was the last seen of him. The family did not feel alarmed at his not being home thinking that he had slept with friends in town as was very often his custom to do. At 7.30 on Thursday morning the dead body of John was discovered on the railway track opposite the pool room and the horrifying news was shortly afterwards imparted to his mother, brother and step-father who reside at Slav town.
The skull was smashed and the body badly torn. The body was taken to the R.N.W.M.P. barracks.

An inquest was held Thursday morning at which the jury brought in the following verdict: "John Miller was accidentally killed on the railway by a freight train." The funeral will take place on Saturday at 3 p.m. from the Institutional church. The Knights of Pythias and Order of Eagles will take part in the services.

C. L. Goody, of Kwong Song Wing, Nelson, B. C., is visiting his brother in town.

Joe Plancy while tending his horses at the stable on Monday last received a severe kick in the breast by one of them, and has been confined to his bed ever since, but, we are pleased to learn, is doing well.

For Thanksgiving Day the Canadian Pacific Railway Company announce a rate of fare and one third for the round trip. Tickets on sale November 7th, 8th, and 9th. The train leaves town last November 11th.

There were several visitors in town from Blairmore and Frank on Tuesday to attend the show in the opera house, amongst them were Mark Drumm and wife, Mrs. Malcolmson and Mackenzie, H. Murphy and wife and George Colley and wife.

A Thanksgiving service will be held in the Institutional church on Monday 9th inst. After the service refreshments will be served by the ladies of the congregation. All are cordially invited. Collection will be taken during the service.

T. W. Davies, builder and contractor, was on Friday last awarded the contract of erecting a large building for Mr. McLean at Hillcrest. The building will be about 40x30 feet in size and will be used for a general sale and other purposes.

On Sunday last while David Davis, one of the oil bosses, was working at the mine came very near losing his left foot by one of the dinkies partly passing over it. Fortunately, no serious damage was done and Mr.
Davies expects to be at work again in a few days' time.

CORRECTION.—Readers will please note the change in the address of S.
Chas. Brooks in his "For Sale" advertisement which has appeared in these columns for several months. Mr.
Brooks address should have been given as Nicola, B. C., instead of Victoria, B. C. Persons interested will please write him to his proper address.

Criminal court will open at Macleod on the 10th instant, Judge Stewart will preside. It is said that it will be one of the largest dockets ever held at Macleod. Nineteen cases to come up for hearing are already booked, amongst them being three murder cases, two forgeries, one rape, two burglaries and two cattle killing.

The Coleman Mfr. Co. have found it necessary to make some improvements in the interior of their building so as to be better able to conduct their ever increasing business which they attribute to advertising. They have found it necessary to remove their
a. l. from the paper until they are in a better condition to accommodate the public.

Work on the building of four retaining stone walls, by Harry Oldan for the C. P. R. at Loop, about five miles west of Crow's Nest was suspended on Monday last until the early spring on account of the advancing cold weather.
Some of those walls when finished will be at least 150 and 200 feet long and also 10 and 20 feet high. Nearly 100 men were working on them.

STORM AT FRANK

Terrific Wind Storm on Monday
—Worst for Many Years—
Much Property Damaged

Monday morning seen one of the worst wind storms which has visited Frank for many years. The wind raised sometime during the night and before daylight had done considerable damage to the business section of the town.

The Union hotel had several windows blown in and a part of their metallic roofing carried away. 41 Meat Market had their large windows and doors blown in as well as the west and front end of the roof loosened from the building, P. Burns & Co. lost a few windows, a large piece of the C. A. C.
& Co. tangle roof was torn off and carried over the tracks, telephone poles were snapped off and that portion of the side walk between dominion avenue and the C. P. R. station was completely taken away and distributed in various parts of the town.

The Geo. Cobley Co. suffered a heavy loss in the destruction of two large plate glass windows as well as having considerable damage done to goods which were on show in their windows.
There was a continual procession of tin cans, stove pipes, rocks and boards travelling down main and other streets for several hours. Luckily no one was on the streets at that time of the night or we might have been called upon to report more serious accidents in the way of loss of life. Frank is certainly unlucky.

THE "KILTIES" ARE COMING

The "Highlander" entertainers will play in the opera house, Coleman, tonight. Their programme consists of a variety of acts in a new and gratifying manner. The programme includes grand old comic opera solos, riffs and duets of high-class, up-to-date songs, handsomely costumed and charmingly rendered.
This is the treat of the season.
Everybody should hear them.
Prices 75, 50 and 25 cents.

FRANK NEWS

The children celebrated Halloween by their usual pranks.

BORN—On Sunday last, a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Harrison.

Best Hargreaves took a trip to Lethbridge the end of last week, returning with J. D. Stewart who will visit here.

A. V. Lang and E. Morino are taking advantage of the hunting season.
They have gone to South Fork on a deer hunt.

S. J. Watson and L. W. Kribs left on Tuesday night to attend the assizes at Macleod, they being witnesses in the Blairmore robbery case.

C. Moss, butcher for P. Burns & Co. at Blairmore, has been moved to Frank where he will look after the business in Hillcrest and Bellevue.

Walter Fisher, who has been butcher here for P. Burns & Co. for three years, has been transferred to Blair-more to take charge of P. Burns & Co.'s shop there.

Angus Sly, formerly of the Frank railway station staff, has been transferred to the new station at Hillcrest junction where Mr. Rivelle, who was until recently agent at Burns, and him will have charge.

Services will be held in Knox church, on Sunday next, as follows: Church of England service at 11 a.m., conducted by Rev. G. Hepworth; Sunday school at 2 p.m.; Baptist service at 3 p.m., conducted by Rev. J. Sargent, and Methodist service at 7.30 p.m., conducted by Rev. T. Taylor. A cordial invitation is hereby extended to all to attend these services.

Someone who ought to have known better, but evidently did not, put a wire gate on the road between Frank and Blairmore with the result that Jack Miller, who was driving to Frank, narrowly averted a runaway.
The team not seeing the gate which was lying flat stepped on it, the gate thrusting them. Luckily, Jack was the only occupant of the rig for if any ladies or children had been in the rig they would have, undoubtedly, been killed.

BRUTAL ASSAULT

Woman Assaulted on Saturday
While on Her Way to Town —Offender Escapes

At about 11 o'clock on Saturday morning last while Mrs. Legal, who lives with her husband on a ranch about two miles west of Coleman, was on her way to town, walking near the railroad track, she was assaulted by a young man unknown to her. Mrs.
Legal received a very heavy blow on the face from the scoundrel's fist.
The police authorities were soon informed of this outrage and an immediate search for the offender took place. Constable Green arrested a man at Fernie but he proved innocent and was released.

It is certainly a regrettable fact that respectable women cannot escape the crim. cot. of such villains. It is sincerely hoped that the guilty person will be found and have his just dues meted out to him.

BLAIRMORE NEWS

Dr. Warnock was in town on Wednesday.

A number of town's people are attending court at Macleod, this week.

The West Canadian Collieries have let a contract for the building of a tool and other houses, at their coal openings south of town, to Frayer & Sincilar.

James Dougal left for Pincher Creek on Wednesday to purchase horses for the West Canadian Collieries.

The team of the West Canadian Collieries took fright at some new cattle near the post office on Tuesday evening and ran away, throwing their driver, Mr. Roberts, against a post, slightly injuring him. The team ran through the old football grounds, and in contact with a tree, were thrown down and one horse badly injured. It is not thought that the horse will recover. The buggy was badly broken up.

LICENSE ISSUED

The much looked for license for the Alexandra Hotel at Pincher City reached F. M. Collins on Friday last and much satisfaction is expressed by almost everyone of the fact of having succeeded in obtaining a license.

Mr. Collins is a busy man now making the necessary changes for carrying on the hotel business. A number of changes were necessary to put the place in the shape required to make the Alexandra Hotel one of the best in the west and when Mr. Collins has completed the changes there will be no doubt as to its standing amongst the hotels of the west.

Until the bar arrives a temporary one has been erected and was opened for business on Wednesday morning.
Mr. Collins is a hotel man of the first quality, knows the business from a to z and believes in running a hotel in a manner that will afford every convenience to the trade. In the bar the finest liquors and cigars will be dispensed, while the dining room will soon establish the reputation of putting up the best meal in the country.
With the advantage of a license it puts Pincher City on a level footing with other towns in the district.
Without the license the accommodation required by the public could not be given.

WEDDING AT SUMMERVIEW

On the evening of October 28th the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Elliott, summerview, was the scene of a very pretty wedding when Edith May Bishop and Claude Ingles Campbell were united in marriage by Rev. R.
E. Finlay, pastor of the Methodist church, Pincher Creek. Before the hour appointed for the ceremony most of the guests had arrived, coming from distances of seven to ten miles in spite of the inclemency of the weather. "Happy is the bride whom the sun shines on" but surely happier still is the bride whose sunny disposition seems always radiating warmth and merriment. So all present forgot the inclemency of the weather in the happiness of the occasion. The ceremony which took place at seven o'clock was simple and impressive. The bride was most becomingly attired in a travelling suit of brown cloth and white hat with brown trimmings. After the ceremony delightful refreshments were served by the hostess, after which the happy couple left for Macleod where Mr.
Campbell is engaged in business. The popularity of Mr. and Mrs. Campbell was well attested by the beautiful gifts they received. They enter their new sphere of life accompanied by the friendly good wishes of their numerous friends.

NEW CHURCH AT BELLEVUE

The new Methodist church at Bellevue was opened on Sunday last. This is the first church to have been built at Bellevue and many of the residents are well pleased over the fact of now having such a place where Divine services may be held. Much credit is due Rev. H. H. Haddon because it was largely through his energetic efforts that the church was built. Rev. Taylor who recently arrived from Lethbridge is now missionary at Bellevue.

Victoria, Nov. 4.—The election on Oct. 28 by acclamation of William Sloan in Comox-Atlin, came as a sur-

While it was admitted that Sloan's thought that his defeat could be secured if a man sufficiently strong were nominated against him. This man was thought to be John Houston, a former Conservative and more latterly an Independent. The Conservative organization were assured that Houston would contest the seat as Independent Conservative and for that reason were prepared to lead him everywhere.

A Corner In Valentines.

By CLARISSE K. EASTMENT.

"I'd like my New York paper," said Mr. Timothy Scott for the fourth time that morning.

"Just a moment, Mr. Scott," said the busy clerk apologetically. "You see we are very busy today," he continued, hastily making change for a small girl who had purchased a valentine. "Tomorrow's Valentine day, you know."

"I ought to know," growled Mr. Scott. "You have informed me that that fact four distinct times this morning. Do you mean to say that all these people are buying idiotic pictures to send to their friends?"

"They are buying valentines—yes, sir," returned the clerk, with an apprehensive glance toward the several customers. "Your paper will be ready in a moment, sir. The package has not been opened yet."

"So busy selling valentines, of course. You needn't repeat the name of the shop. Mr. Scott, turning toward the door. Passing in the entrance, he looked back. The little stationer was the only shop of its kind in the village. Here alone bloomed the flower garden of valentines. Here alone was the source of his annoyance. A diabolical plan entered Mr. Timothy Scott's clever head. A voice interrupted his musings.

"Here is your paper at last, Mr. Scott," said the clerk affably. The old gentleman looked about the store as he pocketed the paper. The other customers had departed; he was the only one there.

"Show me all the valentines you have in stock," he ordered sharply.

"Yes—yes, sir," gasped the perturbed clerk as he dived beneath the counter. Presently he emerged, dusty and breathless, bearing several large green pasteboard boxes.

"These in the store," he said, indicating the interior of the small room, "and these in the boxes are all we have."

Mr. Scott looked round at the rows of valentines. There were picture postals, lace paper missives, a few silk and satin beauties and an assortment of the coarse "comic" valentines. All of them expressed varied degrees of sentiment, and they were all resplendent in cupids, intertwined hearts, flowers and tender verses.

"I will take them all," said Mr. Timothy Scott, reaching for his pocket-book.

The agitated shopman started vacantly until he caught the fierce gleam in the customer's eyes; then, with trembling fingers, he collected the valentines and placed them in boxes. In ten minutes the store was denuded of its festive array, and Mr. Timothy Scott was the proud possessor of six huge boxes of valentines.

"Can you obtain any more for me?" he asked sharply.

"No, sir," said the clerk. "There isn't another one in the village, and I couldn't get any one to drive twenty miles to Millertown after some."

"Very good," said Mr. Timothy Scott as he paid his bill. "I will send my man after the boxes," he said as he left the store and entered the storm of flying flakes. There pronounced to be a heavy snowfall, and Mr. Scott tramped cheerfully toward his handsome home, very well satisfied with the result of his morning's work.

Late that afternoon old Benjamin staggered into the house under the load of boxes from the stationer's, and his master ordered them placed in a corner of the library, where he sat crooning his feet before the pleasant blaze.

"Dis yer paper is all de mail dey was," said the negro as he placed the evening newspaper at his master's elbow. "Somehow, Mr. Timothy, seems like dey's powerful lot of excitement down de postoffice, sah."

"What sort of excitement, Benjamin?" asked Mr. Scott absently.

"Wby, I dunno 'sactly, sah. I heerd Mr. Down say as how somebody had bought ebery valentine dey was in Beechcove, and dey was due to be hed for love or money, nobow. Some aks like dey was put out about it. I 'spect some gentman has a lot of lady friends' he's gwine to 'member dis yer day," he chuckled gleefully.

Timothy Scott's weazened little face flushed under its mat of snow white hair. "That will do, Benjamin," he said gravely, and the old servant retired.

"I dunno, Hetty," he confided to his better half, "as who was washing dishes in the kitchen, 'seems like Mr. Timothy's growing pesky irritable lately."

"What's he been a-sayin' now?" wheezed Hetty, lumbering across the room. "I don't set no store by ole back's. Dey's powerful peevish and hard to suit."

"I don't remember what he said," returned Benjamin dubiously, "but he did look like he might be sayin' something bery."

Mr. Timothy Scott sat late before his cheerful fire that evening with a feeling of discomfort beneath his white waistcoat whenever his gaze encountered the pile of boxes in the corner of the room.

"What are you going to do with 'em?" they seemed to ask reproachfully. "Are you going to send 'em on our several ways to cheer sorrowful lovers and make little children smile?"

No, Mr. Timothy Scott was not going to do that. He was going to fulfill his general mission. He frowned agreeably into the fire, and the glowing embers sent shafts of light up the chimney and framed pictures in which valentines played many a part, and that was very strange too.

There was a picture of a girl, such a pretty girl, small and dainty, with black hair and soft black eyes. She wore a white gown and a blue ribbon, and she was giving Mr. Timothy Scott a valentine, and Mr. Timothy Scott seemed to be very glad to get it. And there was another picture of the same girl, and a white gown and a blue ribbon, but her eyes were full of tears, and she was giving Mr. Timothy Scott a valentine, and Mr. Timothy Scott seemed to be very glad to get it. And there was another picture of the same girl, and a white gown and a blue ribbon, but her eyes were full of tears, and she was giving Mr. Timothy Scott a valentine, and Mr. Timothy Scott seemed to be very glad to get it.

"Thirty long years had he waited for her to send for him, but she had never evinced a sign that she knew Mr. Timothy Scott, save that she dipped a little old fashioned courtesy whenever they met. And that had all happened thirty years ago, and she had never married and neither had he. She lived in a big, lonely house at one end of the village and he at the other in a house just as large and as lonely.

Something rolled down Mr. Timothy's nose and splashed on the white waistcoat. He jumped up and blew his nose violently. He rang the bell for Benjamin.

"More wood, Benjamin," he ordered sharply. "My fire is going out, and I am taking a cold."

The next morning after breakfast Timothy looked absent in the library and went to his safe, where he unlocked a secret drawer and took out a yellowed envelope, from which he drew a faded little valentine, the self same valentine that he sent on fifty years ago. He placed it carefully in his letter case. Then he called Benjamin.

"Have a seat, Benjamin," he said, and the old servant hobbled away with alacrity.

Down the village street glided the great Russian sleigh, Benjamin guiding the handsome bays and Mr. Timothy Scott muffled to the ears in furs sitting in the back. People stared after the sleigh curiously, for the sight of the master of Scott house recalled to their minds that he was responsible for the fact that few people in Beechcove had received valentines that year.

Through the great bronze gateway, which he had not passed since that other day so many years ago, they dashed up the broad avenue, sweeping in from the colonial house, and he alighted with brisk agility. The long wait in the familiar drawing room, the parting of the velvet curtains, the coming of a dimly lighted room with snowy hair piled high, soft black eyes and white dress, with knots of violet ribbon, and then, "Timothy," she said gently, "I knew you must come some day."

The minister married them that afternoon—Violent Allen and Timothy Scott. Then the newly wedded pair entered the sleigh and were sped down the avenue and up the street to the Scott house, where old Hetty baked and brewed in a whirl of mad excitement. Timothy Scott was sent on fifty errands about the village, and when evening came there was a merry gathering of people in the old house. Every man, woman and child who was able to be afoot were there. The walls of the room were hung with gay valentines. The tables were covered with them. They were pinned to the draperies and suspended from the chandeliers.

Timothy Scott and his beautiful bride received their neighbors cordially. There was a banquet in the huge dining room, music in the hall and then the bride gave to each departing guest a valentine as souvenir of the occasion.

"Timothy," said the bride when they stood alone before the hearth fire, "we must repeat this every year when Valentine's day comes around—the reception, the supper, the music, the giving of valentines."

"We will," said Timothy solemnly.

More Than He Could Do.

It was an interesting time at the house of Dobbs, and finally when the doctor came out into the hall Dobbs was in a state of excitement equal to an electric light.

"Well, doctor?" he said inquiringly, grabbing the physician's coat front with both hands.

"Twain," responded the doctor briefly.

"How—how—many?" he asked in a dazed manner.

"The usual number," replied the doctor, smiling.

"Oh, yes—ah—excuse me, doctor. Boys or girls?"

"Boys."

"Yes."

"Then I'm a ruined man!"

"Ruined?" he was the wiser answer.

"What's the matter with you?"

"Why, doctor, for the last twenty years it's been all I could do to meet the demands of my boys for my old clothes, and now at my time of life to have to commence to wear two pairs of trousers at once in order to keep up with the procession is more than I can undertake. I see rain with a big B starting me in the face, and I can't make a move to defend myself."

The doctor gave him a dose of chloral to quiet his nerves.

A Razorless Race.

The only known race of hairy human beings reside on the island of Yezo, adjoining Japan. They are about 160,000 in number and are known to the Japanese as the "Mosinos" or "all hairy people." They have the entire body covered with a profuse and remarkable growth of hair, the only exception being that the faces of the women are bare, but usually stained with a kind of juice so as to resemble the beards of the males.

AFTER DOCTORS FAILED.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Restored a Despondent Sufferer to Health.

"Although it is now some years since I found it necessary to take medicine of any kind, I attribute present good health entirely to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills." Thus writes Mr. Wm. M. Ferguson, of Fort St. Vrain, N.B. Mr. Ferguson continues:—"For years I was a sufferer from chronic bronchitis and general debility. I had always been delicate but as I grew older I seemed to grow weaker, and at the approach of autumn I commenced to cough and had to remain in the house all winter. With the coming of summer I always got a little better, only to be laid low again when the fine weather was over. During my last and most severe attack I coughed nearly most distressing and I raised considerable phlegm while at night I would be bathed in a cold, clammy sweat. The doctor's medicine relieved my cough a little during the day time, but there was no other improvement as I had no appetite, the night sweats continued and I was growing weaker. I changed doctors three different times but to no avail. Then I began to take cod liver oil, but my stomach had grown so weak that it refused to retain it. It was at this time when I was unable to reconcile myself to my fate that a pamphlet relating cures wrought by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills caught my eye. Although my friends thought me in a decline, and although I was feeling hopeless myself, I decided to try the Pills. After using several boxes, though I still continued to cough, I felt better in other respects, and my appetite was gradually returning. I was not only surprised, but pleased to find this improvement, and I gladly continued their use. By the time I had taken twelve boxes the night sweats and cough had entirely disappeared, and I took several boxes more, and felt that there was no necessity to continue the treatment as I was in better health than I had ever been before. When I completed the twelfth box I weighed myself and found that I had gained 25 pounds. As I said before it was some years since my cure was effected, and I have not had a cough in the season since, and have always enjoyed the best of health. I believe, therefore, that it is entirely due to the agency of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that I am now as well today, and I trust that others will benefit by my personal experience."

You can get these pills from your medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

WHICH WAY?

Protect Existing Forests or Plant New Ones?

"If you draw the attention of the 'man in the street' to our rapidly diminishing supplies of timber he will in nine cases out of ten say, 'Yes, that's so. Why, the government ought to go to work and plant up the open spots. Let us examine the practicality of such a scheme. With a large and well equipped nursery for the growing of forest seedlings and with labor at $2.00 a day, it is possible to reduce the cost of planting five feet apart each way, to between $7.00 and $8.00 per acre. For the sake of argument let us assume that it can be done for $5.00 an acre or $3,000 per square mile. At this rate the planting of a township only 6 miles square would require the enormous expenditure of $115,500. The 'man in the street' will do some pretty hard thinking before he will consent to pay his share of the cost of such an undertaking, yet he will read in his morning paper, that thirty townships, or more than a thousand square miles of woodlands in Northern Alberta, Saskatchewan or Manitoba have been planted the matter a second thought."

Would it not be very much more to let us assume that the money required to plant a single township for the maintenance of an efficient fire ranging system, aimed at the protection of the western woodlands from fire. The railway being built through them and the settlement that will quickly follow will be a constant source of danger, but if fire rangers who feel the responsibility of their positions and possess the necessary diligence, firmness and tact to perform their duties and secure the co-operation of the settlers and the railway companies, can be found and retained in the service, a great deal may be done to save invaluable timber from ruthless destruction."—A. Etiquette Hints for Fall Brides

OCTOBER remains a popular month for weddings. It is a month which lends itself admirably to interior decorations, because the asters and autumnal leaves are at their best, with chrysanthemums on the market in many sections of the country. It is also a desirable month in fashions, and no bride wants to waste her trousseau on between-season modes. Finally and most important by tradition and sentiment have marked it for their own.

While the bridal month remains practically unchanged, bridal customs change with each generation. For instance, when our mothers were married, it was the custom of the bride-to-be to remain in seclusion from the day on which her wedding invitations were issued until the day of her marriage, barring perhaps a farewell service at church. All this has changed. At first, the bride and her parents began by entertaining in a quiet way, the bridal party. From this timid disposition, ante-bridal weeks developed into a miniature social occasion for the bride and groom-to-be. Intimate friends now vie with each other in giving exclusive little dinners, luncheons, and even dances. Especially if the bride's attendants come from out of town, there is much gaiety during the week immediately preceding the wedding. Generally, the bride's attendants living in town entertain those from out of town, while the bride-to-be gives a luncheon for her maid, or the parents of the bride give a dinner followed by a small dance for the entire bridal party, with perhaps a few intimate friends, and the groom gives a bachelor dinner for his best men and ushers.

Even when such elaborate entertaining is not on the cards, a dinner or so, and luncheon, may be anticipated, while the entertainment of out-of-town relatives or bridal attendants will entail some social duties upon the bride, so taken altogether it behooves her to be prepared.

In the first place, she should have her trousseau well out of the way at least a fortnight previous to the wedding. The over-worked, over-wrought, harried bride, burdened with final stitches is no longer in vogue. She is expected to have her trousseau out of the way and play her social role with serene face and steady nerves. Another very important reason why all sewing should be finished is the task of acknowledging wedding gifts. Time was that a bride wrote her acknowledgments either during her prolonged wedding tour or on her return from a short one, but good form now decrees that these notes must be written before leaving on the tour, unless a gift is heedlessly sent on the morning of the wedding by some prostratingly generous friend. Gifts may be expected within twenty-four hours after the invitations are issued, and it is not until the second day of a certain hour. If her circle of friends be small, or two, if they be many, she will not find the task a burdensome one.

A great many brides have written asking me what is expected of the bride at a "show" and in it correct to have such a function given in the bride's own home. A shower is what might be termed a polite and impulsive affair, and no girl of delicate feeling would permit her own mother or sister to issue invitations for such a function. It is usually given soon after the engagement is formally announced, never directly preceding the wedding day. A friend invites a few intimates to spend the afternoon or for a luncheon, in honor of the bride, and each guest is informed that she is expected to bring a little gift for the guest of honor, generally something of a purely domestic nature. There are showers of tinware, and showers of household linen, showers of crockery and showers of lingerie, but in any case, nothing expensive or elaborate is expected. Dusters and tea towels, sweeping caps, odd little aprons, sleeve protectors, etc., are suitable for linen showers, and in crockery something quaint, like an odd jug or plate or pudding dish, is better than a piece of fine ware. These gifts are sometimes distributed from a huge crepe or tissue paper pie which forms the centerpiece on the luncheon table, or at an afternoon tea, they are brought into the room with the refreshments in some odd receptacle. In fact a shower is properly a function for intimate girl friends only, where jokes and pranks may be played, and the gifts should not be so burdensome or interfere in any way with the selection of the wedding gift proper.

When the bride and groom prospective are entertained at a dinner given in honor of themselves and the wedding party, the bride is taken out to dinner by the host and sits on his right. The groom escorts his hostess, and sits on her left. At a dance given in honor of a bride, each man must seek a dance with the bride and her attendants. They constitute a circle of honored guests to whom chief attention must be paid.

A question often propounded by girls whose mothers have died is this: "Who issues my wedding invitations?" If the father has never married again, the wedding invitations are issued in his name thus: "Mr. James Barton Treynor requests the honor of your presence, etc."

If the father has married, the invitations may run, "Mr. and Mrs. James Barton Treynor request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their daughter, Mabel, etc." or the words "Mr. Treynor's daughter, Mabel" may be inserted. The latter is perhaps the more formal and correct wording, but it is less kindly in reference to the step-mother. However, when the father has died and the mother has married again, the formal phraseology is prescribed, and the father's name is usually omitted, as the girl usually assumes her own father's surname. In this case, the reading is: "Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Stewart request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their daughter, Mabel Treynor, to—"

Smart Models for Fall Days

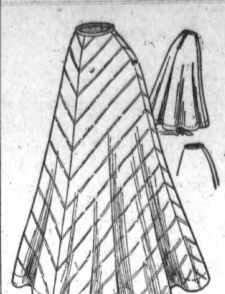

FIG. B—BIAS EFFECT OF STRIPES

WE have just passed through a very restless year of fashions. Extreme styles have been introduced, and died within a month. The princess, like all extreme styles, was overdone, much abused, worn for a time, and then modistes turned their attention to the development of the Empire garments. For indoor frocks they were pretty, though becoming to the tall slender woman only. Then the much advertised sheath skirt was heralded, but it will never be adopted by the conservative American woman. All the fall models of skirts, however, are what is known as sheath fitting. That is they must cling to the figure, and fit the waist and hip line perfectly, without wrinkle or dart. The pleated skirt has been put aside with last year's garments, and the up-to-date girl is wearing circular skirts with all her smart costumes.

Just now, early in the fall, we see a great many plain coats and striped skirts, but whether this fashion will last into the winter is a question. However, it is a practical fashion for a girl who has a dark blue or brown coat, left over from a suit, the skirt of which is worn. Figure A represents a very smart skirt for a trim little figure. It is a two-piece circular cut with panel inserted in front. The fancy buttons were made of soutache braid forming loops and large knots of the braid forming a button effect. The braid should match the color of the dark stripes in the goods. This is not a model which could be worn by a stout woman, but is most attractive on the lithe, young girl. This is a charming model for any goods that has been sponged and shrunk, such as serge, zephyr, cloth, mohair, cheviot, etc. It would not develop well in wet weather, but is a skirt that is made without body. Such a skirt would require five yards of goods of 42-inch width. If the cloth runs full width, double width or 44 inches, then four yards would be sufficient.

Figure B shows a very stylish treatment of stripes, an effect which is not difficult to secure. The skirt is sheath fitting about waist and hip line, and falls in a full flare about the ankle and feet. Here is a skirt that is becoming to almost every figure, particularly to the stout woman. It gives her a long line in the front, and great care must be taken to match the stripes exactly, so that the downward-turning "v" effect formed by the stripes is perfect in symmetry. The side seam prevents the undue sagging at the hip line. This particular model was seen in a black and white striped imported cheviot material, and was worn with a plain black serge jacket. The skirt cleared the ground by two inches, and was finished off with a deep hem with several rows of stitching of black silk thread. A mohair braid was then sewn on by hand on the bottom of the skirt, with about an eighth of an inch showing. This served to keep the bottom of the skirt from soiling.

retains her own father's surname. In this case, the reading is: "Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Stewart request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their daughter, Mabel Treynor, to—"

If both father and mother are dead and the bride lives with an unmarried brother, the invitations are issued in his name. "Mr. George Treynor requests the honor of your presence at the marriage of his sister, Mabel," etc. If she is married from the home of a sister already married, the invitations are issued in the joint name of the brother-in-law and sister. If she is married from the home of a friend, having no near relatives, then the cards run:

The pleasure of your company is requested at the marriage of Miss Mabel Treynor to Mr. James Lanier Browne on Tuesday, October the 13th at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Ormond Johnson, Fifteen Calumet Place.

If the wedding is a quiet affair with only a few witnesses, no invitations are issued, but cards reading thus are mailed the afternoon of the wedding day: "Mr. James Lanier Browne and Miss Mabel Treynor have the honor of announcing their marriage on Tuesday, October the twelfth, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Ormond Johnson, The First Baptist Church, Quincy, Ill."

Welcome Gifts for College Girls

WHEN college girls packing their trunks for the year away from home, fond relatives and generous friends often desire to contribute some useful gift for the girl's outfit. Here are a few suggestions that will prove helpful.

In the first place, remember that all college girls are not alike. Some go to college as well as at home, and the thoughtful giver will consider the girl's tastes before selecting a gift. For the studious girl, there is no nicer gift than a year's subscription to her favorite magazine. If possible the periodical that deals with her chosen profession, art, literature, philanthropy, etc.

A timely gift for the freshman is a fountain pen or one of the various ink-pencils, which she will find most useful in the lecture room. A camera which has been added to college days and pranks is always welcome, and for the girl who already has a camera, you can get books for mounting photographs in many sizes and all sorts of bindings.

"From Day to Day" or "A Line a Day" are useful, leather bound diaries or memoranda books in which the college girl will jot down things to be remembered, and an engagement calendar of liberal proportions is equally helpful.

The hospitable girl will appreciate a chafing dish, a box of pretty Japanese paper napkins, or odd cups, saucers and plates. She will also like a set of pretty aprons of diminutive size to wear when making fudge and chafing dish mysteries.

The girl of domestic type who fuses

with making her room dainty will like pretty kimono, and she can never have too many of these and pretty slippers. She will like cushions and fresh cushions covers, notably those of the wash variety, either in lawn delicately embroidered or flowered cretonne. A pretty gift for such a girl is a bed-room set in dainty china, including a tray, small pitcher for ice-water, candlestick and matchbox, which she places at night beside her bed. She will like a dainty vase or jardiniere for her room, and she is the sort of girl who dates on foiled pin cushions and all sorts of tapestry-covered boxes for her bureau, while every girl will like one of the tall hat stands for the closet shelf, wound with ribbon or covered with cretonne. MARY DEAN.

Hot Breads for Breakfast

DESPITE the many varieties of breakfast breads which the bake shop around the corner offers, the thrifty housewife still bakes her own dainties. The success or failure of baking breakfast breads depends largely upon the flour used, as some brands of flour make good pastry, other brands will make a better bread dough. This is to be found out only by experience. It is almost impossible to get a good pure brand of corn meal in the north. The pure white meal of the south will give a delicious flavor to bread that the inferior quality of the northern brand would never lend to it. Here are some recipes which may be tempting enough to try.

Huckleberry Cakes: Mix together two eggs, white and yolks together, and add to them two cups of milk. Into this sift two large cups of flour, to which has been added two teaspoons of baking powder. Add to the batter one cup of large huckleberries, which have been washed and picked over. Bake on a thick iron griddle in the shape of round cakes, and cook slowly. Spread the cakes with butter and sprinkle with brown sugar. Eat five on a large plate in the manner of a layer cake, and cut in wedge-shaped pieces and serve piping hot.

Popovers: The great secret of successful popovers is to have the batter thick. Just as soon as you make a thick batter, you have milk instead of popovers. They should be baked in heavy cups—the Scotch ware being the best. Without separating the whites and yolks, beat together two eggs, and add to them one part of milk. In another deep bowl put half a pint of flour, and a liberal dash of salt. Pour the egg and milk mixture onto the flour and salt, beating with great vigor all the time you are slowly pouring it in. If the batter is the least bit rough, strain through a sieve to make perfectly smooth. Fill cups two-thirds full, and bake in a very quick oven. Biscuits: This is a recipe that has made the southern cooks famous. The dough for these biscuits is more of the consistency of pastry than ordinary dough. Mix one pound of well-sifted flour, with three ounces of lard, and a gill and a half of water. Beat the dough until light. These biscuits should be shaped with the hands, very small in size. They should be pricked several times with a fork, and baked in a quick oven.

New England Puffs: Into a cup and a half of flour, add a liberal pinch of salt, and a scant teaspoon of baking powder and one tablespoon of granulated sugar. In another bowl cream a tablespoon of butter and the beaten whites of two eggs. To this add and butter mixture, add alternately a little of the dry mixture and one egg, and half cups of milk, and finally the whipped whites of the two eggs. Bake in greased muffin tins in a quick oven. Some women add one-half teaspoon of soda.

Coffee Rolls: From your regular bread dough take enough to make about a quart. Work into this dough a large tablespoonful of melted butter, and a cup of sugar. The dough knead into this mixture six cups of dried currants which have been washed, dried and dusted with flour. Make into small rolls, dip in melted butter, let these rise and bake until brown.

DEATH ROLL GROWS

The death roll of the storm in Cagayan valley on October 13 grows heavier as fuller reports come in. Reports from Manila say that 500 were drowned in Tubaguas, capital of the province of Cagayan, and that all the houses were destroyed or damaged. The damage to the tobacco plantations is estimated at several million pesos. In the province of Abra, the constabulary report heavy loss of life and great damage to property throughout the province. It is known that 200 people were drowned. The constabulary cremating the bodies and the government has delivered rice to villages to feed the refugees. Cholera has appeared in three towns of Abra province.

NEWFOUNDLAND ELECTIONS

Up to going to press the result of the Newfoundland elections has not been received. The present standing shows that the Liberals are leading and we feel sure that nearly all the polls which are yet to be heard from will re-elect Liberal members and give Sir Robert Bond the privilege of ruling over the destinies of England's oldest colony for another four years.

TAFT ELECTED

The result of the presidential elections in the States which took place on Tuesday, gives Taft a large majority. Latest returns indicate that Wm. H. Taft, of Ohio, as President-elect will have a vote of 309 out of a total of 435.

Mr. Bryan takes defeat easy and he sent the following message to Mr. Taft:

"Hon. Wm. H. Taft, Cincinnati, Ohio.—Please accept congratulations and best wishes for the success of your administration. (Sgd) W. J. Bryan."

BRITISH SAILORS IMPRISONED AND STARVING

St. Vincent, D. W. L. Nov. 9.—Word has been received here of the seizure several weeks ago by the Venezuelan authorities of a British trading vessel at Margarita, an island in the Caribbean sea belonging to Venezuela, and the imprisonment of the crew. The St. Vincent schooner Lady Kensington, carrying live stock and vegetables for Trinidad after sighting the Dragon's Mouth, was becalmed. The schooner was carried far out of her course, and while drifting off Margarita was seized by Venezuelan officers. This occurred on September 23 and the crew and passengers have been detained as prisoners ever since. The owner of the vessel has just received, through the Trinidad agent, a letter from the captain of the schooner dated Sept. 25 in which he says:

"We are still imprisoned. Our own provisions have been exhausted and the government says that it has no food to give us."

The governor of Trinidad has communicated with Sir Vincent Corbett the British minister at Caracas inquiring as to the circumstances of the case and urging an official investigation.
